

Dear Friends and Fellow-Debaters,

On behalf of the DEBATING SOCIETY GERMANY e.V. may we extend a cordial invitation to the

9th Stuttgart European Debating Week
Saturday 26th November to Saturday 4th December 2005

In past years we have hosted teams variously from the Czech Republic, Estonia, Israel, Italy, Lithuania, Slovenia, Spain, and the USA. In 2004 14 German and visiting teams competed, and this year, with even more countries involved, we hope to expand. We see the event as a renewal of the WSDC 2004 in Stuttgart.

You will only have to pay your own fares to get to and from Stuttgart, and a very moderate participation fee of ca. Euro 25,- per visitor for public transport (= Euro 150,- per team of five plus one coach.). We will then accommodate, transport and feed you for the duration of the stay. Visiting teams will be accommodated by individual local schools. Debating will take place in schools in and around Stuttgart every afternoon, following a programme of visits and receptions in the mornings. We hope to have the Final Debate in a public building of down-town Stuttgart.

We will give you fair notice of set motions, including the final debate, and the motions for impromptu will be announced one hour before each debate. Format will be WSDC parliamentary, with points of information and with no cross-examination. Length of speeches will be eight minutes.

You could either regard it as competitive practice for the WSDC Cardiff 2006, or else just as informal debating for your students. All debaters will receive a certificate of participation and the winner will get a wee prize.

Please let us know asap whether you are likely to come, and with what probable age groups. Please mail answers direct to Angelika Höness at:
